STATE-WIDE PROHIBITION

Will Not Be Demanded Just Yet By the Anti-Saloon League.

Brice Goldsborough, of Georgetown, one of the field workers of the Kentucky Anti-Saloon League, conferred at Frankfort, July 14, with Rev. M. B. Adams, who was recently appointed chairman of Legislative Committee of the Anti-Saloon League at a meeting of the headquarters committee in Louisville. Mr. Goldsborough said that he and Dr. Adams conferred concerning the campaign to be waged before the next General Assembly for passage of an act extending the provision of the County Unit Bill. According to Mr. Goldsborough the Anti-Saloon League has decided to make no fight for a State-wide prohibition bill at the coming session of the General Assembly. He said:

"We will center our fight solely for the extension of the County Unit Bill. We understand that the Prohibition party, the Women's Christian Temperance Union and like bodies will make a fight for State-wide prohibition, but it will be separate and distinct from our campaign. Between the two we may be able to force the liquor men to give us a compromise that will be satisfactory in the shape of an extended county unit bill. We believe with an extended county unit bill we will carry every county in the State dry with the possible exception of five, and may be able to carry all but two of them. We have no hopes of ever carrying Jefferson or Fayette dry, until there is a State-wide prohibition law."

In regard to the prospect of State-wide prohibition driving out the Kentucky manufacturers only to have liquor shipped in whenever desired from the border States, Mr. Goldsborough admitted that this would be unjust to the Kentucky people, but said that another bill is pending before Congress to prevent the interstate shipments, and the Anti-Saloon leaders have hopes of it passing next time.

An Easy Method for Sprinkling.

Sprinkling clothes can be made easy by the following method: Take the tin top of a baking powder can and make tiny holes in it with a tack. Fill the can with water and adjust the lid. Only a few holes should be made, and these should be small.

RIVAL TOBACCO POOLS.

Clash Between Equity and Burley Societies.

Alleged admissions by leading members of the Burley Tobacco Society have caused it to be widely rumored that the American Society of Equity in Kentucky and the Burley Tobacco Society are on the verge of open war, and if the conflict comes the leaders respectively of the two armies will be J. Campbell Cantrill, Congressman from this district and president of the Kentucky branch of the Society of Equity, and Clarence Lebus, president of the Burley Society, who led the Burley forces to victory in its conflict with the American Tobacco Company.

If war is declared the first step will be an effort of the Society of Equity to organize a rival pool to that of the Burley Society, the movement for which is just being launched. The question, which is likely to be soon put before the tobacco growers of the white Burley tobacco district is, will the 1909 Burley tobacco crop be pooled by the Burley Tobacco Society or by the American Society of Equity?

GROWING FRICITION.

Friction has been growing between the two organizations for some time. The Burley Society has announced its plan for a 1909 pool. This is being assailed and a pool under the Society of Equity is openly urged. The Society of Equity, through the parent and patron of the Burley Society, has, since the successful pools of 1907, been rather overshadowed by its offspring.

REFUSED TO DIVIDE FUNDS.

It is said this spring, after the pooled tobacco of the Burley Society had been nearly all paid for, the American Society of Equity asked the Burley Tobacco Society for $20,000 for the support of its organization. This was declined on the ground that the society had no right to make such a contribution.

Later a request was made for $10,000 and turned down on the same ground. An effort, it is reported, was then made to negotiate a loan from the Burley Society, but the officers held that the society would not loan its funds, no matter what collateral was offered.

BE MIRTHFUL AT MEAL-TIME.

Anger or Pain Not Good for Digestion, Says Mrs. Evans.

The emotions of anger or pain check the flow of gastric juice and interfere with the digestion of one's food, consequently there should be nothing but cheerfulness at the table. The parent who attempts to discipline his children at this time is making a serious mistake; likewise the wife who makes meal time an opportunity for driving home a certain lecture. At dinner or breakfast she usually has ample time to give expression to what she has on her mind, but better no meal at all as far as nourishment and health are concerned, than food eaten in the bitterness of spirit. It may be difficult to shut out from meal time the discussion of disagreeable or perplexing problems, but it is imperative if one would secure the best results from the food one eats.

Laughter and good will, on the other hand, are vigorous promoters of the digestive functions. The court jester was probably a valuable piece of dining-room furniture in olden times, and a good-natured and cheerful guest who keeps up a lively and entertaining conversation at the table does more to aid digestion than all the nostrums ever invented.

Never can tell when you'll mash a finger or suffer a cut, bruise, burn or scald. Be prepared. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil instantly relieves the pain—quickly cures the wound. 52-4t.

Revokes License.

Mayor John Skain, of Lexington, Wednesday revoked the saloon license of Claude North, doing business at Oerrall and Dewese streets, on evidence that he had sold liquor there Sunday, in violation of the Sunday closing law.

In his official revocation Mayor Skain set an unprecedented order by making it in the future the rule that in order to receive license again after having a license revoked, the applicant must have a certificate from the Chief of Police and from the Ways and Means Committee that he is an orderly and upright person who desires to obey the law and that there is no objection to his license being reissued.

If this order is obeyed to the letter, the opening up of saloons for business on Sunday will be a thing of the past, for it will particularly be an impossibility to get license reissued after revocation.

Mrs. G. A. Beasley, Trenton, Ky., says: "I had fine success in treating my fowls for Limberneck and Cholera with Bourbon Poultry Cure. I gave them the medicine in both drinking water and food. I like this remedy fine." For sale by W. S. Lloyd.

Wife Desertion A Felony.

A bill is to be introduced in the next Legislature making wife and family desertion a penitentiary offense. The proposition strikes us as a good one, and will no doubt go far to stop an evil that has long worked a great hardship on helpless women and children of the State. No punishment is too severe for the brute who deserts his wife and dependent ones when they most need his assistance, and a law similar to the one suggested will no doubt be passed.—Cadiz Telephone.

A Few of the Things Parents Should Teach Their Children.

To be true to their word and their work.

To face all difficulties with courage and cheerfulness.

To form no friendships that can bring them into degrading associations.

To respect other people's convictions and not to continually air their own.

To reverence womanhood, but not to be deceived by the petty tricks of womankind.

To live a clean life in thought as well as word and deed.

To remember that true manliness always commands success.

That the best things in life cannot be bought with money.

That to command they must first learn to obey.

That there can be no compromise between honesty and dishonesty.

"Yes," the tramp was saying, "it was a fine house and lawn. So I walks in, gets down on my knees and hands and begins chewing the grass. Out comes a lady, as purty and kind-looking as I ever seed, and she asks me what I'm doing."

"I haven't had any grub for days and days, liddy," says I, "and have got to eat grass to live."

"My pore man," she says, "Come on around in the back yard. The grass is longer there."

Josh Wise Says: "When a middle-aged man follows his rose, he generally follows it into somebody else's business."

Answer This Question.

The Maysville Ledger says: There are more than 1,000,000 boys and girls in the United States who are working when they ought to be at school or out in the fresh air. This terrible fact was revealed to the National Association of Charities and Corrections in convention at Buffalo.

Why didn't the Ledger pursue its statistical research a little further and tell how many of the fathers of these boys and girls have forced their children to work instead of secure an education by their drunken habits? It would be quite interesting, don't you know.—Flemingsburg Times-Democrat.

PROGRESSIVE TOWNS IN DRY COLUMN.

On Tuesday evening, July 13, the writer left at 9:45 and arrived at Ashland 90 miles distance before 1 o'clock, too late to take in the sights of this attractive and hustling and "dry" town, so we sought rest and visions in sleep.

At 6 o'clock a. m. we boarded the train for Helliell, (134 miles distant) and intermediate points. The first amusing incident occurred on this wise: In front of us sat a young woman under a wide hat and beside her a young man. She arose to place her hat in the rack. In her effort to make the less contain the greater she dropped the aggregation of straw in our lap. She begged our pardon. Of course we let her have it. She tried again, saying, "I'll just make it go in." By this time the experience was getting interesting. Her companion smiled as she said "I'll make it go in." We looked up and said, I want to see that operation. Again she failed. Then the young man carried the expansion of milliners' art to the end of the car and stood at the seat.

Editors sometimes have a peculiar way of diagnosing troubles not peculiar to their trade. Our eyesight is somewhat impaired, but as near as we could judge, measures of the dimensions of that hat were: Crown 11 inches, crown with rim 21.37 inches. She was in style and pursued her journey bear-headed.

Our first stop at Prestonsburg. Circuit Court was in session and the civil docket was being tried. We asked Commonwealth Attorney May about convictions. He said the jail was stacked full. Since our visit last year the Bank Josephine has moved into its elegant new quarters. It's up-to-date in architecture and furnishings and courteous officers, and we presume in financial stability. We did not think to get its statement. The bridge is "a gold mine" will pay for itself in four years--toll 5 cents for foot men--if ladies are passed free we did not hear of it. We did not have time to discuss politics with our friend F. A. Hopkins and others.

PIKEVILLE. We spent Wednesday and Thursday nights and till noon Friday. Thursday we were in Helliell an intervening point. The institute was in session at Pikeville. There are over 150 school districts in the county; and more than that many teachers. We failed to meet the County Superintendent. We asked some teachers how many pupils were in the county. None knew definitely. Our conclusion was about 10,000. The public entertainment in Courthouse in the evening attracted much attention. We entered the room for a few minutes while institute was in session. There appeared to be more male than female teachers.

PAINTSVILLE. We left Pikeville at 12:30 Friday for Paintsville and stayed till next morning. Here we met Mr. and Mrs. Finley Fogg and children, who are now residents of Paintsville. Mrs. Fogg and children had arrived on Monday. Our friend Fogg is now with John C. Mayo and associates. GREAT enterprises are in process of development. Coal is to be King in the Sandy Valley, and Paintsville is the center. Later we will be in position to speak more definitely about mines, railroads, coke ovens, etc. The man said that at one place on Millers Creek (across the river and near town) 1,000 houses will be built. This is not authoritative. Fogg is located in the Paint-be completed. Let Mr. Sterling people take notice of this.

ASHLAND AND CATTESBURG. The recent local option election comes to mind. Ashland voted dry by over 100. Cattsburg went by 22. On 1st of July 26 saloons closed their doors. We arrived in Ashland in time for supper. After our refreshment we decided to see the towns. We had heard that prohibition kills a town. We decided to see how Ashland and Cattsburg were doing in 17 days. In the few hours at our disposal we must limit our investigation. We decided to examine hotel registers for the first ten days in June and ten days in July. Here is the result by count at the two leading hotels in each town:

ASHLAND--TRAVELERS INN. June 1-10, wet, 137; July 1-10, dry, 181; a gain of 44.

VENTURA. June 1-10, wet, 418; July 1-10, dry, 377; a loss of 41. A net gain of 3 for Ashland.

CATTESBURG--SHIVERS. Wet June 1-10, 135; wet July 1-10, 259; a gain of 124.

ALBANY. Wet June 1-10, 202; wet July 1-10, 263; a gain of 61. A net gain of 185 for Cattsburg.

AT ONE of the hotels in Cattsburg we observed something which may be customary at hotels, but to us was rather odd. As we scanned the register for July we noticed the frequent recurrence of a m. e. s. Closer investigation showed that for each day in July from the 1st to and including the 17th the day we were there from 7 to 9 names were registered in uniform order and assigned to the same room from night to night. There was some of this in June. We do not know why such entries were made.

In Ashland we met a friend after dark. He suggested that we see the Police Judge. We went to City Building. A policeman said the Judge was out and that we would be apt to find him at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

Enroute to Cattsburg the car was jammed, many ladies and gentlemen stopping at Cattsburg Park, a very attractive and popular resort.

In town we made above investigation, and spent several minutes talking with D. H. Carpenter in his big department store. He also owns the electric light plant which supplies the entire city. He said that in recent election 93 per cent. of the business men were opposed to local option. Observe that they won by only 22. True but suggestive. He is a very pleasant gentleman.

We continued our tour. In the saloon district we saw from the pavement sad sights. We had read of the bog that is washed returning to his wallowing in the mire, etc.

A young man a bartender extended a very cordial invitation to us to enter his saloon and to place future orders with his house. We replied that we did not wish anything this evening, thanked him for his courtesy and told him that his display in the window was very attractive. We were not on a mushing or lecturing tour. We were peacefully studying life as it is and noting facts for observations.

On this trip we observed many events, heard and saw much that we cannot relate for lack of time. We are not a short-hand reporter and do use a typewriter. We will go again.

We are opposed to the U. S. Government, State, county and town partnership in the liquor business. We think with the thoughtless who drink it, the voter who endorses it; we lament the fate of the man who sells it, and the victim who dies by it; we discredit the business sagacity of the business man who for revenue advocates it.

Just before the clock struck 11 we were talking to two policemen on the street in Ashland. The

OLD ADAM IN BOYS

PUGILISTIC ENCOUNTERS OF THE PLAYGROUNDS.

"E-ee-eyol Feller! A Fight!" is the slogan that will draw the Crowd Even from the Delights of Baseball.

There probably isn't a school in the country in which there doesn't arise each day some cause for a fight. If it isn't in one class it is in another, and it is the strictly proper thing to pull the fight off in the noon hour. After three o'clock baseball is in order, and as that has fights of its own a mere school fight would interfere. So you know it's come when you see a crowd of boys awaiting and hear shrill cries of:

"He said--'You dassen!'--'I didn't neither say--'Well, go ahead and fight.' 'You're a liar.' 'You're another!' 'So are you!' 'Back it up!' 'Yes, I will!' 'Will yer?' 'Yes, I will.' 'Come on!' 'E-ee-eyol! Feller! a fight!'

It always starts that way, and sometimes it is severe enough for all concerned to get up an extra apple, or, of course, accidents will happen, and occasionally one boy runs into another boy's hat with such force that he gets a blinder. The driver of the blinder is a hero for some hours, but his reputation usually forces him into another fight and he is apt to lose the reputation.

But the other day a really good fight happened, though it wasn't one that was on the calendar. George Heinrich, a boy, and Willie Burke, responsible for the disappearance of his baseball mitt--though he found it later at home--and were exchanging the thing developed through recriminations, defenses and challenges to actual warfare. The combatants had been fighting in deadly earnest and the throng of howling boys for ten minutes, and one of them had almost struck a blow when the crowd was violently parted.

Olle Swit, aged 13, had been one of the loudest yellers and advisers, but he seemed not to expect to be so violently snatched on his class button that it was nearly driven through his chest. Neither was he expected to have a hand of fingers twine in his hair and nearly pull it out. But that happened while the shrill yell of George's ten-year-old sister, as she cried out, crying, "Come on, fight and encourage it. He tried to explain, to back away, to cover up, and to do all other compromising and senseless things, but it was in vain. She was after him like a terrier after a transgressor, and every for him lay in sight, so he broke and ran.

The decisive element that followed him told plainly that he had forever sacrificed the esteem of that crowd. Still he didn't dare return and face her, so he came to attack his sister's pet.

When she had driven her to the floor she broke out in a rage, and half of the crowd stood by her willing to see or not only did she start the fight, but that she had also attacked George's sister.

The result was that in the afternoon he received a dozen challenges, and after school he was in two fights and gave two. For the next three days he lands were full, and it was only by desperate measures that he managed to keep out of the whole school. The fighting hardened him and trained him, and when the other boys found that he would not fight on any provocation, and on almost none, they stopped "picking" on him. In a couple of days more the matter was forgotten, and other boys even, when seen walking home with George's sister and carrying her books.

Prohibition Resolutions.

At a mass meeting of citizens of Flemingsburg, Fleming county, Ky., held at the Christian Church, Sunday evening, July 14, 1909, the following was passed unanimously by a rising vote:

Whereas, The liquor traffic is an unmitigated evil, having been well called, "the sum of all villainies;" and

Whereas, It breeds crime and fosters anarchy and its advocates are today defying law and order in their oft-repeated assertion that "prohibition will not prohibit." Therefore be it resolved by this mass meeting of law-abiding citizens:

First. That we favor and endorse the movement for State-wide Prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes in Kentucky.

Second. That we also approve and recommend the State-wide Prohibition Convention, having been favored with a session of the same in our midst July 6-11.

Third. Resolved further that we most heartily and earnestly protest against and condemn the action of the Louisville Board of Trade and Commercial Club in their resolutions against Prohibition and favoring the cruel, crime-breeding, liquor traffic. The sober, God-fearing, home-loving people of Kentucky do not join these bodies in inviting the liquor parasites that have been run out of other States into Kentucky. We do not need or want them.

Fourth. Resolved that copies of these resolutions be sent to the papers of Louisville and of our own county with the request that they be published.

Tyler Becomes

Expert Accountant.

Mr. J. O. Tyler has been made happy by the receipt of a letter from Joel Hunter, chairman of the Georgia State Board of Examiners of Public Accountants, that notified him that he had successfully passed the State examination for public expert accountant held at Atlanta May 25th and 26th.

Mr. Tyler has since received his C. P. A. certificate which is No. 25, signed by the Board of Examiners and Gov. Hoke Smith, June 25th, 1909. This certificate entitles Mr. Tyler to practice in the State of Georgia as a certified public accountant, and to use the abbreviation C. P. A., after his name signifying the same. He is not only the fourth to hold such certificate by examination but probably the youngest C. P. A. in this State.

He has been preparing for this examination for over a year by studying at night and at odd times and his friends are congratulating him heartily on this success.

Mr. Tyler is connected with the First National Bank, having been with the bank since its consolidation, and with the Citizens National Bank before that time. The Albany Herald, July 16.

Mr. Tyler is the son of W. T. Tyler and wife, of our city, and his friends are pleased to hear of his promotion.

DEATHS.

MAGOWAN.—Many were surprised and grieved when the message came to town on Wednesday morning of last week, July 14, 1909, that Mr. Jno. T. Magowan was dead. He was born in this county July 4th, 1834, hence had recently celebrated his 75th birthday. For many, many years he was an active, prosperous farmer, but for a few years had, on account of enfeebled health, committed his business affairs to his son James. He owned a large and fine farm on the Owingsville pike near our city limits. He arose early on Wednesday morning as was his custom. Soon the summons came that called him hence; nothing could prolong the life spark and a few minutes his life's work was closed. He is survived by his wife and son; their daughter Mary a very attractive young woman, having died a few years ago. Many had received of his bounty. He was sociable, generous and sympathetic. The funeral service was held at the home on Thursday afternoon, after which many relatives and friends laid the body to rest in Machpelah.

LINDSEY.—On Friday, July 2, Mrs. Jno. Lindsey, of Sturgeon, Mo., arrived in this city to visit her relatives. For a few years she has been in feeble health. Soon after arriving here she was taken seriously sick, and friends realized that she could not recover. Her husband was with her for 7 days before she died, but she was unconscious most of the time. She died on Monday morning, July 19, 1909. The funeral service was held at the home of Mrs. Young on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by Rev. H. D. Clark and the burial was in Machpelah. Mrs. Lindsey was the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Burwell Tipton, of this county, both now dead. She was born October 6, 1852. On September 9, 1873, she was united in marriage to Mr. John Lindsey, of this city. They lived here until they moved to Missouri on March 19, 1883. Their home has continuously been near Sturgeon. They have reared no children, but have been parents to an adopted child, now Mrs. W. E. Cason, of Missouri, since she was three years old. Mrs. Cason arrived here before her death. Mrs. Lindsey was a woman of marked sociability and intelligence and was for many years an active member of the Methodist Church, being a teacher in the Bible School and a member and president of the Women's Missionary Society. Her desire was that her body should rest in Kentucky soil made sacred as the burial place of her parents and kindred. She is survived by her brother, Lemmie Tipton, and sisters, Mesdames Maggie Young, C. W. Nesbitt and Albert Bourne, of this city, and Ed Bush, of Kansas City, Mo. To her family we extend sympathy.

LIKINSKY.—On Friday, July 2, Mrs. Jno. Likinsky, of Sturgeon, Mo., arrived in this city to visit her relatives. For a few years she has been in feeble health. One Thing Money CANNOT Do--Buy a Better Kitchen Cabinet Than the McDougall

YOU can get a kitchen cabinet made of cheap material, carelessly thrown together--made to sell.

Looks pretty good when you buy it. After a while the defects of its design show up, the wood warps, the joints open, the drawers won't work, the roaches gather, and the cabinet, instead of being a help, becomes a burden. But with the

it's entirely different. It is made of carefully selected, thoroughly seasoned wood, so that it will endure the varying temperatures of the kitchen and last a lifetime. Constructed and fitted together with accurate care, so that everything fits snugly, yet works easily. Durable, strong, non-splintering. Pays for itself in the supplies it saves. Guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction in every way. Besides the McDougall costs little or no more than the "made-to-sell" kind.

To Cut Plate Glass.
To cut a piece of plate glass it is thought a diamond cutter is necessary, but it is not. If the glass is not very thick it can be cut with a pair of scissors, a large pair being preferable. While cutting hold the glass beneath half a foot or more of water, and it can be cut any shape desired. A round piece of glass has been cut out of a good sized pane in just this manner. The scissors do not have to be extra sharp--Success.

The Sense of Duty.
A sense of duty pursues us ever. It is omnipresent like the belly. If we take to ourselves the wings of the morning, and dwell in the utmost parts of the sea, duty performed or duty violated is still with us, for our happiness or our misery. If we say the darkness shall cover us, in the darkness as in the light our obligations are with us yet--Daniel Webster.

FIVE BABIES, ALONE

"A Touch Of Nature Makes All Of Us Akin."

Riding on the Grand Trunk Railway a few weeks ago from Suspension Bridge to Chicago I saw a sight so trivial that it seemed unworthy of mention.

But here is what I saw on that railroad train: Five children, the oldest a girl of 10, and the youngest a baby boy of 3. They were traveling alone, and had come from Germany, duly tagged, ticketed and certified. They were going to their grandmother at Waukegan, Ill. The old lady was to meet them in Chicago.

The children spoke not a word of English, but there is a universal language of the heart that speaks and is understood. So the trainmen and the children were on very chummy terms.

Now, at London, Ontario, our train waited an hour for the Toronto and Montreal connections. Just before we reached London I saw the conductor take the three smallest little passengers to the washroom at the end of the car, roll up their sleeves, turn their collars in and duly washed their hands and faces. Then he combed their hair. They accepted the situation as if they belonged to the conductor's family—as, of course, they did for the time being.

It was a domestic scene that caused the whole car to smile, and made everybody know everybody else.

A touch of nature makes a coach akin.

The children had a bushel basket full of eatables, but at London that conductor took the whole brood over to the dining hall for supper, and I saw two fat drummers scrap as to which should have the privilege of paying for the kiddies' supper.

After our train left London and the conductor had taken up his tickets he came back, turned over two seats and placed the cushions lengthwise. One of the trainmen borrowed a couple of blankets from the sleeping cars, and with the help of three volunteered overcoats the babies were all put to bed and duly tucked in.

I went back to my Pullman and went to bed. And as I dozed off I kept wondering whether the grandmother would be there in the morning to meet the little travelers. What sort of disaster had deprived them of their parents I did not know nor did I care to ask. The children were alone, but among friends. They were strong and well, but they kept very close together and looked to the oldest girl as a mother.

Would she come? And so I slept.

In the morning there was another conductor in charge. I went into the day coach, thinking that the man might not know about the babies and that I might possibly help the little immigrants. But my services were not needed. The little ten-year-old mother had freshened up her family, and the conductor was assuring them, in German that their grandmother would be there.

When the train pulled into the long depot and stopped the conductor took the boy baby in one arm and the little girl in the other. A porter carried the big lunch basket and the "little mother" led a toddler on each side. Evidently I was the only spectator to the play.

"Will she be there—will she be there?" I asked myself nervously. She was there, all right, there at the gate. The conductor was seemingly as gratified as I. He turned his charges over to the old woman, who was weeping for joy.

And as I sat there in the bus the conductor passed by and I called to him, "I saw you help the babies."

He looked at me in doubt. "Those German children," I said. "I'm glad you were so kind to them."

"Oh," he answered, smiling,

Heart Weakness

The action of the heart depends upon the heart nerves and muscles. When from any cause they become weak or exhausted, and fail to furnish sufficient power, the heart flutters, palpitates, skips beats; and in its effort to keep up its work, causes pain and distress, such as smothering spells, short breath, fainting, pain around heart, arm and shoulders. The circulation is impeded, and the entire system suffers from lack of nourishment.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure makes a heart strong and vigorous by strengthening these nerves and muscles.

"I had palpitation and pain around my heart, and the doctor said it was incurable. I don't believe it now, for after taking six bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, three bottles of the Nervine and three bottles of the Serravallo Liver Pills I am entirely cured, and feel better than I have for five years. It is all due to these remedies. I cured me. It relieved me from the first dose, and I kept right on till the pain in my chest was gone, and I kept on feeling better and better, until taking 11 bottles." JOHN H. ALLEN, Mich.

course, that is a railroad man's business, you know—to help everybody who needs help." He waved his hand and disappeared up the stairway that led to the offices.

And it came to me that he had forgotten the incident so soon simply because to help had become the habit of his life. He may read this and he may not. There he was—big, bold, bluff and bronzed, his hair just touched with the frost of years, and beneath his brass buttons a heart beating with a desire to bless and benefit.

I do not know his name, but the sight of the man, carrying a child in each arm, their arms encircling his neck in perfect faith, their long journey done, and hithering them over in safety to the grandmother, was something to renew one's faith in humanity.—Elbert Hubbard in Cincinnati Enquirer.

Tax Reform in Kentucky.

There is a general misunderstanding among the people as to the proposed tax reform in Kentucky, which is being strongly urged by many of our leading citizens. Instead of being for the purpose of protecting capital, as is erroneously supposed by many, it is really for the purpose of making capital invested in stocks, bonds and other forms of personality pay the just proportion of the expenses of the State. Under our present constitution the very principle of equal taxation is destroyed by our tax laws, and the farm lands and other real estate pays about three-fourths of the taxes of the State, county and municipality, while the personal property, by hiding out, pays less than one-fourth, when it should pay at least one-half. Kentucky is not only driving capital out of the State by its miserable and antiquated tax laws, but it is putting most all of the burden of taxation upon the farmers who have anything in sight. Kentucky can never develop up to its possibilities until we amend the Constitution so that we can have a more equitable system of taxation. The Tax Reform Commission is laboring to that end, and seeks to have a law modeled after that in most of the progressive States. Its plan is that farmers shall pay only taxes on their farms for county purposes, and that their real estate shall be exempt from all State taxation; that the State shall derive its entire revenue from personal property and corporations, and that the real estate of cities shall only pay municipal taxes. This is practically the law in New York and Pennsylvania, and it has worked admirably. A tax reform which will reduce the burdens from real estate and bring out of hiding the hundreds of millions of personality without making the rate too heavy is tax reform that should have the support of thinking people.—Elizabeth News.

Party Organization.
The Democratic party leaders are preparing to effect one of the strongest State organizations the party has ever had in its history. The Committee which was created by the State Central Committee for the purpose of establishing and maintaining permanent headquarters and organizing the party in the State, are determined to work solely in the interest of the party and let no factionalism or any kind of issue enter into it. In a few weeks quarters will be produced in Lexington, all necessary office furniture installed, and headquarters thrown open permanently, when the matter of State organization will be taken up. The purpose of this committee is to eliminate all differences which have heretofore proven so injurious to the party in the State and organize the party as a Democratic party, keeping out all animosities which may have arisen. There will be no Beckham and anti-Beckham or any other foolish and foolhardy isms recognized by the Committee in its work. Its work will be in the interest of the Democratic party, and to that end it will bend every energy.—Somerset Journal.
